

Color Interpretation in Styles

IF THERE is one thing more than another that the present styles exhibit, it is color interpretation. Especially are the new woolsens extraordinarily colorful. Bordered fabrics which feature ombre stripes are among the cutting weaves which court favor for daytime modes.

A very charming adaptation of ombre-striped wool poplin is presented in this illustration. In this two-piece model the shadow stripes are arranged so as to border the blouse about the hips, and the skirt at the hemline.
The sleeve is also prettily trimmed with stripes and the tie of self-material carries the color scheme also. The solid portion of the original frock here pictured is beige, the bordering carried out in tones of brown. This attractive material is also featured in beige with green striping.

The two-piece styling is becoming almost standardized for sportswear.

Simple blouse and plaited skirt construction as here pictured is outstanding. Some of the smart new blouses specialize on diagonal fastenings. In fact the surplus movement is becoming more and more pronounced.

A distinguishing feature of many an autumn two-piece costume is the fact of the blouse being a novelty woven, posed over a skirt in solid co-oring.

Lightweight woolsens for frocks are in the foreground of the autumn mode. An interesting entrant into the realm of smart fabrics is wool crepe. Wool georgette is also a popular theme with the couture of Paris.
Both of these fabrics give excellent service, and possess delightful wearing qualities for the schoolgirl.

Among woolsens stressed for the making of the utilitarian dress, one sees considerable navy repps. It shows up handsomely stitched with red. One gets satisfaction out of its excellent wearing qualities as well as delight in that it does not retain dust and lint.

Kasha is another favorite cloth, being especially popular in beige and brown shades. Novelty stripes are prominently featured in kasha.

Smart daytime ensembles use kasha for the dress, also for the lining of a matching velvet coat.

High-colored imported fabrics shed glory upon the daytime mode. For the three-piece ensemble they are advantageously used in the making of the blouse, the skirt and jacket being fashioned of a blended solid coloring.

Pickled Beets

Pickled beets, which contain a high proportion of sugar, are easy to tan and may be processed in the water-bath canner. For pickling, select young tender beets of uniform size; cook and peel them, and pack in a mixture of hot vinegar and brown sugar in the containers. Process the pickled beets in the water bath for 30 minutes. Beets canned without vinegar should be processed in the steam-pressure canner at 240 degrees F. for 40 minutes if packed in quart glass jars, or for 35 minutes if in pint glass jars or No. 2 and No. 3 tin cans.

Timely Hints

Vegetables canned are an "ounce of prevention" against monotonous winter meals.

A good bread pudding is better and more nutritious than many higher-priced desserts.

Fresh pineapple and strawberries make a good beginning to a breakfast as an end to a dinner.

It isn't much more trouble to install a pump in the kitchen than in the back yard, but it means miles less walking in the course of a year.

Substitute whole wheat flour for half of the white flour the next time you make biscuits and get a new flavor that is as delicious as it is wholesome.

Fitting the Dress

Using a Skirt Gauge in Fitting a One-Piece Dress.

of Agriculture.)

The points on which attention is centered in fitting a one-piece dress are the shoulders, the under-arm seams, the sleeves, the neck, and the hemline. Any decorative features must be planned with care so that they are of the right size to harmonize with the entire costume and the build of the wearer, and they must be located with reference to the other lines of the garment as well as to their use.
For example, the length of the front opening, or the depth of set-in plaited sections, or the size and position of pockets, are matters to be decided for each individual.

Shoulder Seam Acts as Anchor.

A properly placed shoulder seam acts as an anchor to a well-fitted garment, says the bureau of home economics. It influences the set of the waist and sleeves and the hang of the skirt. Therefore it should be located most carefully, and the shoulders should be the first part fitted.

The underarm seam in a one-piece dress should be perpendicular to the floor. If it tilts backward or forward, the back or the front of the dress will swing out correspondingly at the bottom. Sometimes this defect is corrected by taking darts in the front section below the armhole and at the hip line, and sometimes it may be necessary to raise the back of the dress at the shoulders and trim out the armhole, rather than to turn up the hem at points where the bottom seems to sag.

When ready to turn up the hem it helps to place the dress on a form on a table, so that the fitter can measure the distance accurately to the level surface of the table. If a dress is to have a belt, a tape-line or other means of confining the waist fulness it should be correctly placed on the form before measurements from the floor are begun, or the finished dress will be shorter than was intended and possibly uneven. A right skirt gauge is a help, either one made especially for the purpose or a ruler, but not a tape measure. The height of the skirt from the floor is partly a matter of the height, weight and figure of the person who is to wear the garment and partly a matter of the season's styles.

Basting, Stitching and Pressing.

Accurate basting and stitching and careful pressing are essential in a well-fitted garment. Stitching must follow near enough to the line of basting that the size of the garment will not be altered. Press each seam as it is finished, especially when working with silk or wool materials. One final pressing will not produce the same results. Turn the shoulder and underarm seams toward the front if they are not pressed open. Turn the armhole seam and shoulder darts toward the neck. Many other fine points about fitting and making a dress will be found in Farmers' Bulletin 1530-F, "Fitting Dresses and Blouses," which may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C.

Ideas About Heaven
Are Many and Varied

Where is heaven? What is heaven?
The question may not have been settled, but it has at least been answered. The ideas contributed are many and various. Here are a few of them:

A circus lot at the end of Main street.

A very high spot in the human imagination.

A beautiful mirage which lures deluded travelers into the barren desert of credulity.

The abode of certain portions of the delly.

A spiritual land of peace, plenty and equality, situated, lying, and being in the uppermost region above the clouds, conjured up by religion to assist in the maintenance of law, order and good will among God's children while in the bodily state on earth.

The most sublime, the most pitiful, the most pathetic delusion of all the ages.

Heaven is that which lies about us in our infancy. Heaven is that about which we were lied to in our infancy.

The ideal, the limit of human ambitions and aspirations, the ever-dying perfect.

A place to which every one is anxious to go, but no one seems to be in any hurry to get there.—The Forum.

Concerning the Kiss

A Greek peasant kissed the hand or knee of a superior when he bowed before him. Kissing the feet of the gods was also a form of Greek worship. The Greeks had made the rule: To kiss on the lips is to adore the living breath of the person saluted; to kiss the feet is to humble one's self in adoration. One custom of kissing our hands to people at a distance from us comes from the ancient habit of kissing the hands to a god whose choice was too tall to be reached.

Kiddies' Bedtime Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Ada was six and a half years old.
She had dark hair and gray eyes, and her arms and legs and mouth and nose and ears were much like those of her friends if you were trying to describe them, though Ada really didn't look much like any one.

Nothing had ever happened in Ada's life that was interesting to other people. That seemed too bad, for so much had happened in Ada's life that was extremely interesting to herself.

There were all the games she liked to play, and the people she loved according to all the places she enjoyed visiting, and around all of these there were most delightful happenings.

But alas, only to herself.

Sometimes she thought of something she might do that would make others notice her; for example, she thought of painting away.

That would certainly make people pay attention to her. She had heard that if you put wet blotting paper in your shoes you would paint away.

She tried it once. But she hadn't failed.

She had only felt uncomfortable with the wet crumbling blotting paper tied to the soles of her stockings.

And when her mother had discovered her wet stockings she had merely been punished and there was no fun in that.

It was a pity the way families had of always discovering wet feet.

Now, who in the world would think of discovering wet feet when the shoes weren't wet, and when the wetness wasn't in plain sight? And yet she could.

She was certainly a pity.

She thought she would have to go off somewhere and have very great adventures. The more she thought about it the more she liked the idea.

She began thinking of those who went like adventures, too.

Her Mother Had Discovered Her Wet Stockings.

If they gave him money in return.
There was Nip, the tame chicken.
There was Mrs. Cackle, the brown hen. She could never leave her pets behind.
There was Peter Murray, the fox terrier dog.
There was Sassy Sassy, the friendly cow.
There was Mr. Toot, the gardener.
There was Joe Joe, Crystal's beloved woolly lamb.
And there were friends too.
But most important of all was the fact that really and truly Ada should have adventures.

Curtains for Double Windows

Two of more living room windows placed in a group are usually considered as one unit. Depending on the style of the ceiling, and the appearance of the draperies, the group may be a whole, they may have only one side draperies to give the effect of a frame for the window group.
Indicated by a valance at the top of the window, or there may be a separate pair of side draperies at each window. In the latter case only one valance would be used, extending from side to side of the group. Great care should be necessary to see that the repetition of vertical lines in the individual hangings for each win-

Making Corned Beef Hash

A good many people do not know exactly how to make an appetizing corned beef hash. There are several ways to it, according to the bureau of home economics. One is having about equal amounts of cooked meat and potato. Another is in grinding the meat and potato together. A third point is in seasoning with a little ground onion and a dash of cayenne pepper for pungency. Generally there is enough salt in corned beef to season the mixture.

SEASONABLE RECIPES

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Can we know too much about the delicious nut which comes so sweet and meaty to us in the glossy brown skin after Jack Frost has pinched their butts? There are so many ways of serving them that the recipes might well fill a book.

Chestnuts With Brown
Sauce.—Here is a dish that will enhance any meat dish, or in fact any vegetable dish. First remove the shell and cover a plait of chestnuts with boiling water blanch fifteen minutes, then peel off the brown skin. Now cover the nut with boiling stock and cook until the meat is soft enough to pierce with a fork.
When done drain and save the stock in which they were boiled. Put one tablespoonful of butter into a frying pan, add one tablespoonful of flour and mix until smooth and brown, then add a cupful of the stock in which the nuts were cooked, stir until smooth, add salt and pepper to taste, pour over the chestnuts and serve.

Sweet Pickled Chestnuts.—This is a delicious condiment. Take seven pounds of chestnuts from which the shells and skins have been removed, to three pounds of sugar. Pack the uncooked chestnuts in jars. Boil the sugar in sufficient water to fill the jars, packing chestnuts in for waste in boiling. If the vinegar is very strong dilute it with a little water. When the sugar and vinegar have come to a boil, pour over the chestnuts and let stand twenty-four hours. Repeat this for three days.

Chestnut Patties.—After boiling and blanching a pint of chestnuts, add one-half cupful of cream to two rounded tablespoonfuls of butter, one and one-half cupfuls of milk, two well-beaten eggs, one-fourth cupful of sugar and salt to season. Pour into patty tins and bake quickly.

Marrons Glace.—We find these now in our best shops and they are well worth the price asked for them.
Shell and blanch the nuts and thoroughly dry them. Roll until not too tender. When dry insert a toothpick in each nut, so make the place put one pound of granulated sugar and one quart cupful of water in a saucepan and let stand until the sugar is dissolved. Set over the heat where it may boil without stirring or jarring.
When bubbles begin to look heavy, drop a teaspoonful of the syrup into a cupful of cold water. If it is brittle and makes a ringing sound, add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and lift at once from the fire. Set the pan in hot water and dip the chestnuts one by one into the syrup. Remove the toothpicks and place on oiled paper to harden. If the glaze is not good, dip again.

When lamb steaks are casseroleed, make a bed of vegetables such as peas, carrots, parsnips or turnips underneath. Put the steak very browned on top, sprinkling well with minced onion and celery, afterward pour over the gravy, thickened.

Chicken is delicious served on casserole with mushrooms and potatoes.
A dash of onion and green pepper also improves the chicken, veal or rabbit.

Beef Tongue en Casserole.—Take a tongue which has been lightly corned, boil it after trimming well. Then remove the skin and rub with flour to which has been added a dash of ginger and allspice. Fry on onion (sliced) in salt pork, then put in the tongue, tying it into shape. Fry lightly, browning it on all sides.
Make a cupful of gravy, adding the juice of a lemon, three tablespoonfuls of shredded almonds, and one-half cupful of seeded raisins. Put the tongue into a round casserole, pour the gravy over it and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven. Put the meat, turn on a chop plate and serve with the gravy poured over it.

Lemon added to a honey-dew melon brings out its flavor to perfection. It is usually served with honey-lew in most hotels.

THE SEWING CORNER

While it is not always possible to devote an entire room especially to sewing, during the period in the fall and spring when sewing is done in many homes, an extensive sewing it is a good idea to arrange at least a corner of a convenient room for the work. There should be a good light to begin with, and agree equally should be planned so that party invited garments on the dress form. A on hangers may be left as they are from one sewing period to the next having a nearby closet with plenty of shelves, or a ready chest of drawers in which to keep materials. And ings and incomplete work also to an all to orderly and rapid dressing.

All sewing tools, including the sev-ing machine, should be in good order before the beginning of that busy session just preceding the opening of school and college. Some of the supplies to be checked up are: Stump extractors, accurate tape line, plenty of pins, needles, threads and sewing aids of different sizes and colors, snippers, backstitch, basting, bias bindings and other materials you are in the habit of using. If you are making any underwear requiring buttons, keep a supply of buttons also on hand. Pro-

Set Machine Near Light.

Keep on hand for each member of the family whose clothes you are overseeing to make. The bureau of home economics will give you help in doing this if you write to the Department of Agriculture.

"I agree with George White that Luckies are the best"

Said Flo Brooks to Lou Holte while waiting for their cue to appear in "Manhattan Mary."

George White,
Producer of George White's Scandals,
writes:

"In the theatre world, Luckies have become almost universal. Sing, talkers, very critical voices must be kept in condition, throat irritation is a handicap. In 'George White's Scandals' most of our vocalists and actresses have important smoke Luckies both for voice protection and for flavor. For these reasons I prefer them, too."

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"ITS TOASTED"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

There is no instrument that can compare with the human hand. What wonders are wrought by it. Human hands built the Pyramids, wrote the Bible, touched the strings of the harp and sent hope into your heart as they touched yours in that day when the lamp of hope burned low.

What of the hands of the church? We shall consider the five fingers of these hands; and shall call them Prayer, Propaganda, Philanthropy, Preaching and Practice.

Church School meets at 12 o'clock sharp.

SAYS STOP NIGHT COUGHING THIS WAY

There is not the slightest need to stay awake nights with bad coughing spells or fear the awful spasms. A special Botanic Balsam, that is the best I've run across for persistent coughs that are in the throat or deep down in the bronchial tubes, will in most every instance give such wonderful relief you can sleep the very first night without a single spell.

Here's advice worth following if you have a bad cough, ordinary sore throat and especially if you can't sleep.

Go to your druggist and ask for Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Take a few doses before going to bed and the freedom from night coughing will certainly surprise and delight you.

Adamson's contains no narcotics, or poisons. It is safe, sure and pleasant, especially for children. For 60 years it has proven to be reliable for quickly stopping dangerous, deep coughs. Any good druggist will gladly supply you for they all know its effectiveness for instant relief. Remember—Adamson's Balsam.

FACTS

-AND THE OPEN MIND

THE MOST important element in business success—and the most difficult—is to be sure that you have all the facts before you act.

TO GET them all, from every possible source, is the first objective in General Motors. The Research Laboratories contribute some. These are nuggets, left in the crucible, after hundreds of ideas that looked good have been burned away. The Proving Ground contributes others. Dealers contribute. The public contributes. Every department contributes.
Through the whole organization runs a spirit of inquiry and of rigid insistence on proof.

OUT OF such thinking come the new models announced from time to time by Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Oakland, Buick, LaSalle, Cadillac—all with Fisher Bodies. And by Frigidaire.
Each new model is a tested step forward. Nothing goes into it as a result of habit or guess or pride of opinion.

Nothing counts but hard-won facts, gathered and used with an open mind.
